THE 1942 JUMBO BOOK
TUFTS COLLEGE

MEDFORD - - MASSACHUSETTS

To Melville S. Munroe

Here was a man who contributed to his college gifts of priceless worth; yet one whose personal charm and integrity outweighed even these.

He was one of those native sons of Tufts who re-invested with interest the education earned within its walls. He graduated in the class of 1904, as a leading member of the college glee club and an active Delta Upsilon. Returning in 1905 as an instructor in electrical engineering he remained with that department until his retirement as professor in 1941.

A fine instructor, he was always interested primarily in the welfare of his students and his school. Photography was his hobby and his efforts were devoted to producing an unparalleled pictorial history of Tufts. A collection of over 25,000 pictures will remain a lasting monument to his endeavors.

In tribute to the man and his work we respectfully dedicate the 1942 Jumbo Book of Tufts College.

Three Muuroe pictures—two on the spot—one traditional

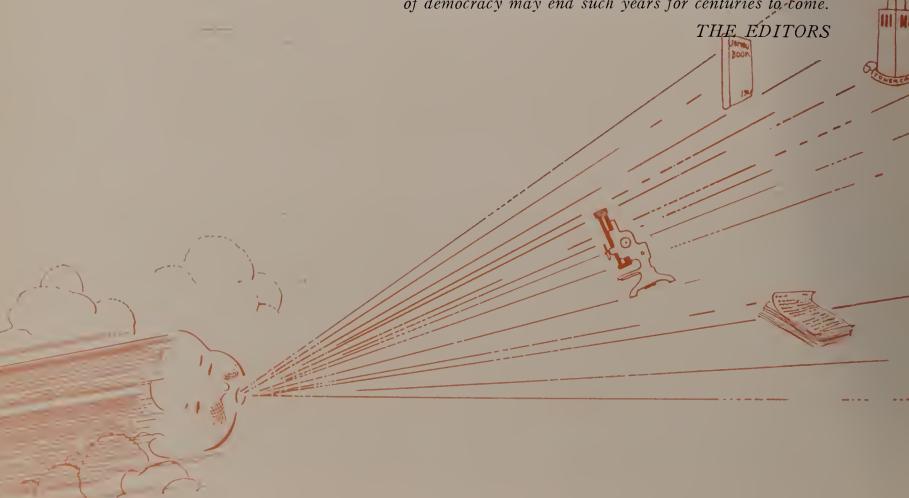

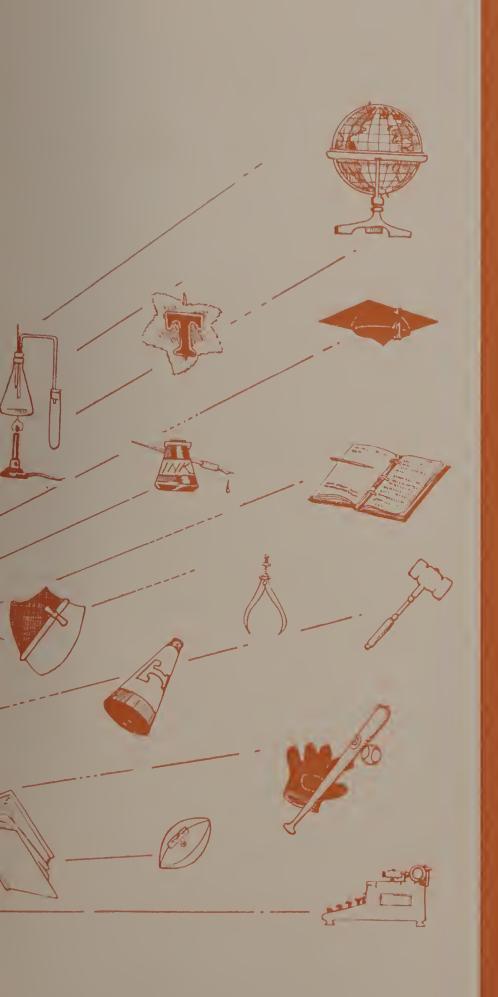

Foreword

This may be the last Jumbo Book for many years. The world conflict in which our nation is involved at this eventful time has changed the character of Tufts. This is but the last of many events which have accompanied the class of 1942 in its college career. Others were the 1938 hurricane, which greeted us in our first week at school and again in the first pages of this volume; the inauguration of President Carmichael; the last year of world peace; the first years of war; and the works of unusual progress among student organizations away from petty graft and haphazard administration.

Far more important than these things, however, is the fact that this has been the last year containing vestiges of normalcy at Tufts. With this in mind we have tried to forget the unpleasant facts of war within these pages and present Tufts as we have known it—a pleasant place to work and play. Depicted here is a normal year at Tufts College. War, and worse, an end of democracy may end such years for centuries to come.

TUFTS HAS BEEN CALLED

Within the following eight pages is a brief pictorial history of the growth of Tufts College. This is our school as it has been, is, and should be. Here too is hope for a future which war may have destroyed.

It was to William Dean Howells some time in the late "80's" that Oliver Wendell Holmes once remarked that, after death, when he awoke in heaven, he expected to see the vista of Tufts College. Jack Frost, famous New England artist, heard of the tale and sketched the scene at the left; Tufts College as it was in Holmes' lifetime. Ballou Hall, Tufts' first building, was erected in 1853; Packard or Middle Hall, as it was called, followed in 1856; East in 1860; and West in 1872.

A college is no more than its faculty. Tufts is fortunate to possess a group of men and women to whom teaching and learning are the pleasures and chief objective of their lives. The class of 1942 owes much to these friendly advisors. Playing squash or handing out F's they have instilled a human respect in our minds. Their frailties were ours and their achievements inspiration for our efforts.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICERS

President Leonard Carmichael

Leonard Carmichael, Ph. D., Sc.D., Litt.D., LL.D., psychologist; and the class of 1942, insignificant, unworthy, entered Tufts together. The wealth of good which the former has brought Tufts has been a challenge for that class.

Through his work our college is a finer, stronger institution.

CLASSES

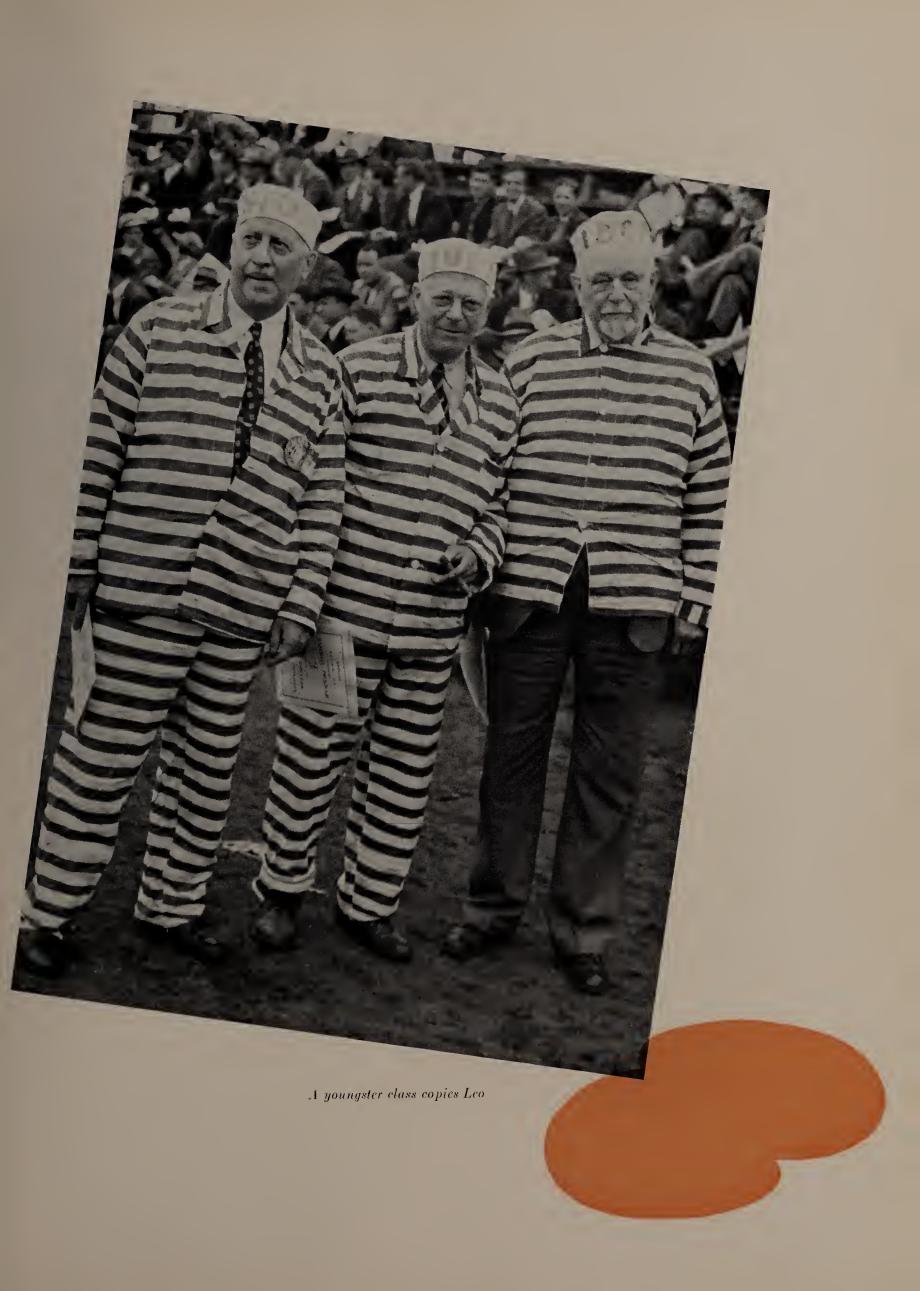

The "T" for Tried and True

Forty-five, Forty-five

Pops concerts, Freshman sing, Jumbo Book, class banquets, and commencement are a few of those activities in which the class emerges as a unit. Each class possesses its distinct personality and finds in such activities the measure of its ability and promise. Within these pages the activities of the classes at Tufts in 1941-42 are described. Such classes will be meaningless in the war disturbed terms of the near future.

Mind you now

With timidity the class of 1942 approached its final college year. It followed a class whose achievements were bright in the annals of Tufts student activity. Despite this the course of the year found the group not only willing but quite able to emulate its predecessor and a series of successful enterprises resulted.

Class elections saw Albert Schaal reelected to serve his fourth year as Tufts' class president, and Brenda Lewis a newcomer to the class signalled out for that honor in Jackson. Other Tufts officers were Robert Rutter, Vice President; Richard Van Gundy, Secretary; Vincent Napoli, Treasurer; John Manley, Marshal; and Edward Ganley, Historian. Jackson officers were Barbara Davis, Vice President; Viola Ray, Treasurer; Barbara Chamberlain, All Around Club Representative; Betty Jane Lambert, Social Chairman; and Rose Alexander, Historian.

High point of the year for the class was commencement. To insure a well planned week the class early elected a committee consisting of Vincent Napoli, chairman; Walter Hall, Raymond Valente, and William Wells, delegates from Tower Cross; Viola Ray, Jackson class treasurer; Corinne Clark Manuel and Catherine Sylvia.

The first Senior events before commencement are the class banquets and arrangements for elections were carried out by the committee. Elected for the Tufts banquet committee were John Sullivan, Orestes Righellis, and Harry Spaulding: and for Jackson, Brenda Lewis, Shirley Boulanger, and Virginia Vibert. For the Class Day program the class elected chapel orators Harriet Mehaffey and Franklin Chambers; and tree orators Shirley Boulanger and James Phillips. The committee picked Freeland Abbott to write the Class Poem and Madelyn Nassi and David Ashton to compose the Class Song.

JUNIOR

John Gehling, Russell Rowell, Bruce MacDonald Warren Price

With Bruce MacDonald at the head of the class, the Juniors raced through a hectic year with '43 men active in every sport and in all worthwhile campus activities.

A fight over bonus blazers for Ivy featured the politics of the class, while the Juniors again attracted attention in the spring by bringing their Prom into the lower price dance bracket. This was accomplished by substituting a lower-priced orchestra for the customary name band.

Juniors grabbed kingpin spots in all the sports, while the class was also well represented in all the clubs, Three P's, the Weekly, and the Tuftonian. The Ivy Society lost two of its men—Howard Redgate and Jackson Fogarty—to the armed forces, and other men of the class followed.

The other officers for 1941–42 were Warren Price, Vice-President; George Mernick, Secretary; John Gehling, Treasurer; and Jackson Fogarty, Marshall.

The members of the present junior class entered Jackson in September, 1939, sobered by a freshly opened European War and scared by the prospects of what Vibert and company would do to them if they didn't learn their songs and cheers fast enough. As sophomores they endeavored to transmit to the class of '44 the hallowed traditions of the college, and as juniors took their place in the many activities of the college—doing make-up and costumes for 3 P's, playing bridge in the windowed corner of the Bookstore, listening to symphonies in Barnum of a Sunday afternoon, and of late, wardening during trial blackouts.

Except for its final year the second is a class's most eventful at most colleges or universities. This is the first year of real participation in the activities of the institution. Varsity sports and positions of importance in many lines of endeavor are open to the aspirant.

Taking all this in its stride the class of 1944 placed representatives in every campus movement, particularly in athletics. Meanwhile in one way or another it revenged its defeats of the previous year to win the frosh class banners. In the spring the class intramural baseball team was outstanding in its division.

Officers for 1941–42 were Andrew Gibbons, President; Bremner Brown, Vice President; Robert Jones, Secretary; Richard Mergendahl, Treasurer; and Hayden Ringer, Marshall.

Sophomore classes, so tradition has it, are notorious for expending energy heckling the meek and lowly freshmen. The class of '44 has carried on in true form, seeing to it that the class of '45 carried posters, wore the hateful "Freshman green" bows, and went without make-up. At "Freshman Sing," it buried the hatchet, and settled down to the now serious business of getting an education. Sophomores are helping with First Aid, U. S. O. entertainment, and one group has taken to settlement work.

Officers for 1941–42 were Martha Dwyer, President; Marcia Barker, Vice President; Sylvia Robinson, Secretary; Constance Arnold, Treasurer; Margaret Anthony, Marshall; Ruth Knipes, All Around Club Representative; Winifred Bryant, Social Chairman; and Hesterlene Lantery, Historian.

Walter Fletcher, Charles Fortin, Donald Bresnan, Larry Kennedy, Jr., Alfred Webber

It didn't take long for the class of 1942 to find out what made Tufts tick. Somewhat missing the importance of school tradition it brazenly flaunted its posters in the face of Sword and Shield. The first Tufts class to take part in the Naval Reserve unit it was also the first to face the prospect of winning its degrees in less than three years. Although the first class banquet brought together one of the finer groups to come to Tufts in the last few years the class dropped its banners to the sophomores winning only the basketball contest.

Guiding the class during the school year were Charles Fortin, President; Lawrence Kennedy, Vice-President; Donald Bresnan, Secretary; Walter Fletcher, Treasurer; and Alfred Webber, Marshall.

In spite of war the traditional green bows were seen bobbing around the campus and marching on a sun-flooded football field on the class of 1945. They were not removed until November at Freshman Sing when the vengeance of the sophomore class was unleashed in its fury. The undaunted freshmen retaliated in the presentation of a clever dramatic skit directed by Phyllis Ahern in which Ann Walsh played the part of awe-inspiring Peg Anthony, whose sails were deflated when she was bodily ejected from "Gravies" House. It was acknowledged, moreover, that the freshmen were the unchallenged "kings of the Rez."

The class officers elected were Bunny Waterhouse, President; Jane Fisk, Vice-President; Mary Lou Roney, Secretary; Lee Frye, Treasurer; Ann Walsh, Marshall; Nancy Wagner, A. A. Representative; Ruth Taylor, Social Chairman; and Anne Littlefield, Historian.

ACTIVITIES

Class Banquet Committee

Love in bloom

Tufts and Jaekson students are offered a varied selection of clubs from which they choose their extra-curricular activities. In addition to the honorary societies, there are thirty-four organizations of a departmental, dramatic, musical, and journalistic nature.

Each of these groups contributes to an essential part of college life, offers the student an opportunity to develop his interests and abilities, and provides an exeellent chance for him to become better acquainted with the faculty.

STUDENT

Supervision of all important elections, class activities, the three honorary societies, college publications, and all organizations are some of the functions of the Tufts Student Council. Permission for dances or for other social affairs must be granted by this group—representative of the student body. Council may interfere when it feels that any student group is detrimental to the college.

Student Council's most spectacular project this year was Tufts' part in National Defense. Speakers appeared before various groups, first aid courses were started, and a campus Red Cross drive was conducted.

In the Spring of 1942, all-campus election process, resulting from Council's machinations, brought the largest student vote in the history of Tufts. Responsible for the work were Robert Scannell, President; Richard Van Gundy Vice-President; and Freeland Abbott, Secretary.

GOVERNMENT

Membership of Jackson Student Council includes class presidents, dormitory presidents, an off-hill representative, and the presidents of All Around Club, Athletic Association, and Panhellenic Council. This year Council put into effect an activities system whereby all students are given points according to the amount of their individual extra curricular activities. The purpose of the new plan is to encourage broader student participation in college activities and to maintain a complete record for each Jackson girl.

Among other activities carried on were arrangements for monthly formal dinners at Stratton and Metcalf dining halls, and for a bridge, the proceeds of which were used to purchase defense bonds—upon maturation the bonds will Tower Cross, founded in 1897, is the Senior Honorary Society. Its name is taken from the rugged stone cross at the pinnacle of the chapel tower symbol of the highest honor at Tufts College. The ten men of Tower Cross, chosen leaders of their class, are pledged to use every effort to promote the highest good of their Alma Mater.

This year the society presented Tufts Night and the all-college Christmas Sing in a new, more attractive setting and ran the most successful sport dance of the year. Walter Hall, Raymond Valente, and William Wells were chosen to represent Tufts on the Class Day Committee.

Directing officers were Robert Rutter, President; Arthur Harrison, Vice President; William Wells, Secretary-Treasurer; Frank Spang, Marshal; and Richard Van Gundy, Grant Curtis, and Robert Scannell, Student Council Representatives.

Recognizing the need for marked economy in the present national emergency, the Ivy Society of the class of 1943 made a big forward step this year, when it put the annual Junior Prom in the comparatively low price bracket, by abandoning the traditional policy of an expensive name band in favor of a more economical group. This drastic step was not only one of common sense, but it promoted a highly successful Prom on April 11. High spot of the dance was the choosing of Prom Queen, Louise Simpkins of Malden, by judges Nell Giles, George Frazier, and Al Capp.

The Ivy Society for the class of 1943 includes George Mernick, President; Howard Redgate, Vice President-Secretary; Emil Pagliarulo, Treasurer; John Gehling and Jackson Fogarty, Student Council Representatives; Robert Bissett, Bruce MacDonald, Edward Terhune, Warren Kelley, and Bruce Watkins.

Furthering of good fellowship and student esprit de corps on the Hill is the chief aim of Sword and Shield, Sophomore Honorary Society. sequently, their paramount responsibility is the proper education of newcomers in Tufts traditions. It is customary for the Society to secure the reverence of the Freshmen by a network of torture according to its special privileges. These vigilantes of the campus, beside administering the yearly paddling to recalcitrant Freshmen, watch chapel song books, usher at athletic and dramatic functions, police out-door sings, and welcome visiting teams.

The annual Sword and Shield informal dance is one of the high spots in Homecoming Weekend for both alumni and undergraduates. Officers during 1941-42 were George Sweeney, President: Bremner Brown, Vice-President; Fred Keach, Treasurer; Andrew Gibbons Recording Secretary; Harold Drake, Corresponding Secretary; and Richard Coffey, Student Council Representative.

THE TUFTONIAN

More than a literary magazine, more than a journal, the Tuftonian embodies the spirit of the college in its flavorsome 48 pages. Revised two years ago, it owes the success of its rejuvenation to the efforts of Editor-in-Chief, John Holmes and to the broad field from which it gathers its material. Students, faculty, alumni all have a part in editing, contributing and subscribing to this unique Tufts quarterly.

Freeland K. Abbot, Associate Editor-in-Chief, and a staff of 18 students have presented to the 3,000 subscribers such literary scoops as an address by the United States Minister to Canada, an unpublished book review by William Butler Yeats, and American Memories, a testimonial to life throughout the nation.

THE 1942 JUMBO BOOK

Now that you look at it you may evaluate the 1942 Jumbo Book. A larger annual than Tufts has seen in many years, its significance is historical. While the editors and their staff of over 50 were laboring to produce the volume the United States and the world were passing through a crisis which is re-thought behind this edition. The inclusion of the new Naval

R.O.T.C. unit shows the first effect of the crisis on Tufts College. The many little messages throughout the book are intended to tell what war has meant to the volume itself. The 1942 Jumbo Book

The Jvy Book

For forty years the Ivy Book has been a tradition at Tufts. Throughout its many pages is an accurate and complete text of the history, faets, and activities of the college, drawn up each year by members of Ivy Society and a representative from Jackson College.

All official regulations are included plus detailed information on the many and varied eollege activities. There is also a short history of the college from the date of its founding through the terms of office of its nine presidents. A large number of Tufts songs and cheers complete the contents of the Ivy Book. To the freshman the book is an invaluable aid in becoming acquainted with Tufts.

The Tufts College Glee Club, oldest musical organization on the Hill, has passed the three-quarter century mark. The club gave its first public concert in 1886 some time after its founding. Four years later the singers went on their first extended tour, and in 1903 the Glee Club gave a total of fifty concerts. In 1936, a large concert was given in Cousens Gymnasium to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the first Glee Club Concert.

The Jackson Glee Club, now led by Viola Ray, was formed in 1906, and in later years combined on various occasions with the Tufts organization. The combined clubs sang last year at the University Lectures.

The success of this organization has been due largely to the inspiring leadership of Professor Leo Rich Lewis.

BAND

The band performs for Bowdoin

Dave would rather swing it

This year for the first time, the Tufts College band was under the direction of an undergraduate. David Ashton's job of directing was done as well and completely as any in recent years as attested by the unusually large number of men who stuck with the band all season and gave finished performances at many of the football games. New members were introduced, and musical fight cheers were played frequently so that the band was soon an expected and important part of every game.

The direction of marching formaations was in the hands of William McMahon, class of 1941, this year. New figures were formed and old ones improved by practice so that the band became a better looking unit than any to represent Tufts at football games in many years.

The Tufts College Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps

The Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps established at Tufts was one of many indications of the United States' Preparation for war. Aimed at enrolling 250 students within four years, the unit prepares men to be commissioned as Ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve. The course covers four years in which one course is substituted for a regular elective each year. Those offered include such fields as navigation, seamanship, and military law. Each enrolee is given a government stipend of $175 beside uniform, textbooks, and equipment.

Captain Keppler, founded and commanded the unit until he was promoted to be Director of Naval Officer's Procurement in the district. He was replaced by Captain Haines, former captain of the cruiser "Astoria."

TAU BETA

Phi Beta Kappa chartered the Massachusetts Delta chapter at Tufts College in 1892. During a century and a half, election to membership in Phi Beta Kappa has increasingly meant recognition of outstanding intellectual capacity well employed, particularly in the acquisition of a liberal education.

Election of students is based on a combination of scholarship and worth-while extra-curricular activities. On the basis of scholarship, members are chosen from the first third of the senior class in the courses of the School of Liberal Arts and of Jackson College.

The annual initiation ceremony took place in Packard Hall on October 31, 1941. An address was given by Professor William Ransom. New initiates were: Katherine Bolster, Barbara Davis, Marcia Kelman, Freeland Abbott, Harvey Corman, Henry Austin Peck, Whitney Perkins, and Anthony Scanzillo.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Tau Beta Pi, an honorary engineering society, was founded at Lehigh University in 1885 and established the Massachusetts Delta Chapter at Tufts in 1927. The purpose of the Society is to confirm honor upon those engineering students who have distinguished scholarship and exemplary character. This honor has repeatedly been an indication that the student would attain outstanding success in his profession.

Members are selected from the upper fourth of the senior class and the upper eighth of the junior class. Scholarship is important but is not the sole basis for election.

At the October meeting the following were elected to membership: Maynard Axelrod, Arthur Burstein, Edmund Czapek, Arthur Stone, and Peter Morganson.

Officers for the year 1941-42 are: Leonard Dozier, president; Richard Coar, vice-president; Albert Heckbert, secretary: Frank Galopin, treasurer.

With such ambitious productions as John Drinkwater's historical drama, Abraham Lincoln: Albert Bein's hobo fantasy, Heavenly Express; and Francis Swann's comedy, Out of the Frying Pan; Pen, Paint, and Pretzels, the honorary undergraduate dramatic society, considers that its past season has attained a most successful level. The society's first offering to the college community was Pretzel Night, with a presentation of George Bernard Shaw's farcical Poison, Passion, and Petrifaction. Making its debut with a performance in the lighter vein, Three P's closed its season on the same note with the cleverly written comedy, Out of the Frying Pan.

Besides offering several minor productions and original skits, the dramatic society organized Tufts Night at Boston theaters. The highlight of the visits to the theaters was a trip to the Tributary Players' production of Shakespeare's seldom-staged play, King John. In the fall Three P's played host to the late Otis Skinner on his visit here to attend the unveiling of the Skinner Memorial Plaque in Ballou Hall.

Without a doubt the feature of the year was Three P's initial venture in trouping, which took place on February 14. Under the financial backing of the Eastern Slopes Region Association, the winter play, Heavenly Express, was packed onto the college truck and taken to North Conway, New Hampshire, where it was the first play produced in the Eastern Slopes recently innovated winter theater. Despite a high wind which hindered scenery unloading, and a heating system which failed to work in the theater, the production was a definite hit. The opportunity to take a show on the road not only gave about 20 Tufts men and women some excellent experience, but it also provided them with a splendid weekend vacation, for their hosts spared no efforts to insure a good time for them.

The officers of Three P's during 1941–42 were: Nelson Fontneau, President; Rose Alexander, Vice President; Emily Otto, Secretary; Robert Clark, Business Manager. The members of this honorary society during this year were Julian Allen, Charles Beskin, Shirley Boulanger, Philip Johnson, Robert Lundblad, Barbara Marshall, Robert Murphy, Carleton Smith, Frank Tredinnick, and John Warner.

MOUNTAIN CLUB

If you have never signed your name in the TMC guest book, rummaged through the debris in the barn, or waked up at five a.m. frozen solid, then, as far as TMC is concerned, you just haven't lived.

TMC furnishes a program for those graduates and undergraduates interested in the sports offered including skiing, hiking, riding, tobogganing, fishing, swimming, and sleighing.

The college year opened with a full house the holiday weekend of October 12, when thirty club members topped Mount Liberty. Far from discouraged by a frost blow at the 5000-ft. summit, they staged their first snowball fight of the season.

Chairman Al Schaal led the annual Armistice Day Monadnock trip this year, while Richard Vincent was the guiding spirit of the ski trips.

CLUB 28

Club 28 is a newly-formed, extra-departmental organization which attempts to investigate and understand as many of the varied aspects of human existence as possible. Frequent trips into publishing houses, literary shrines, churches, and breweries constitute the club program.

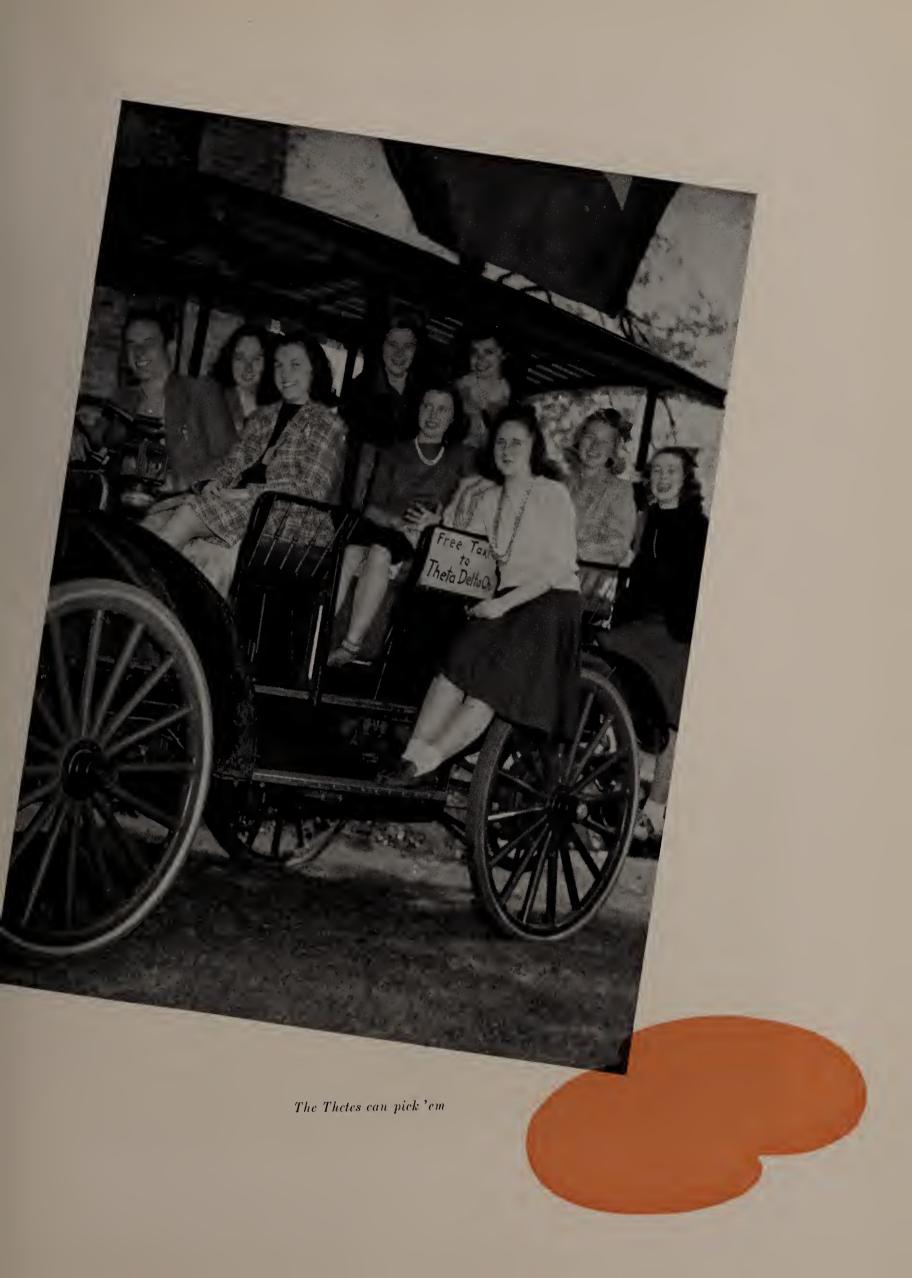

FRATERNITIES

Rush Party

Fraternities and sororities at Tufts exist approved by and in general harmony with the educational aims of the college, and contributing a large part to the social life of the community. The eight fraternities and four sororities on campus are all national and are well represented in other colleges. Well over a third of the student body is affiliated with these Greek letter organizations.

INTERFRATERNITY

Thoughtful

A change in the rushing system eliminated noon meals to freshmen during rush week, instituted a three afternoon, pre-rush week tour of houses, reduced each fraternity's expense to below fifty dollars, and provided that a freshman must be bid by a fraternity rather than the fraternity by the freshman. A larger, improved rush week booklet told the story of fraternities in word and picture. The result was a larger group of freshman pledges than Tufts has seen in many years.

With Sam Donahue and his orchestra furnishing the music and the Northeastern football game in the oval, Interfraternity Week-end was one of the most successful since it was begun four years ago.

Officers for the year were: Frank Spang, president; Grant Curtis, vice president; and William Wells, secretary-treasurer.

Second Row: S. Green, D. Marvin, G. Mernick, E. A. Terhune, M. Beers Front Row: J. Gehling, W. Wells, F. Spang, G. Curtis, H. Corman

PANHELLENIC

Jackson's four sororities are represented in Panhellenic Council. This body supervises many of their activities, as well as their rushing and bidding.

Pan Hell Formal, the first Jackson dance of the year was held in Cousens Gym in October, with decorations following an appropriate army and navy motif. Proceeds from this dance were donated to a worthy defense organization. Early in December, the Council sponsored Pledge Formal, held this year at the Hotel Commander in Cambridge. Close on the heels of Pledge Formal came the annual Christmas Party for the underpriviledged children of Boston. The Chi Omega Scholarship Cup was awarded Chi Omega by the council.

Coveted possession of the chapter this year was the President's Loyalty Award for scholarship, the ebony Jumbo. This was awarded Alpha Epsilon Pi as the highest ranking fraternity, scholastically, at Tufts College. Eighteen men were pledged following rush week. Among the guests present to entertain during the week were comedian "Bob" Levine, '40; athletes Zimman and Collier, '38; and Poet-Professor John Holmes. Charles Beskin was in charge of this successful program.

Eager to aid in winning America's war, brothers and pledges of Alpha Kappa Pi journeyed into the Red Cross center in Boston in February to donate their blood to the national blood bank.

A rush week consisting of a carnival, two Jackson date nights, a smoker, and a cabaret night helped the "Kippies" to lead the fraternities in the number of men pledged in the freshman class. Later a banquet was given for eight Jacksonites who aided during the week, the pledges presented the brothers with a Halloween house party, and a smoker was tendered the pledges.

The pledge formal in December and the combined Alpha Kappa Pi—Alpha Tau Omega Formal, both at the Bradford Roof in Boston, dinner visits from members of the faculty, and an all-college bridge were the principal social events of the year. The annual initiation banquet was held in the chapter house on Founder's Night, March 23.

High spot of the year's activities for Beta Mu of Delta Tau Delta was the winning of the Inter-fraternity Sing shortly before Christmas. Over a year of preparation went into this and the performance was so fine as to have the "Delts" called to sing before the college again on Sub-freshman night.

The largest percentage of acceptances of men bid was that of Delta Tau Delta when twenty one of the thirty men who were bid pledged following rush week. Chief Walter Reeves, sharpshooter of Swampscott, and addresses by Coach "Ding" Dussault, Coach "Slug" Morton, and Professor "Bob" Nichols were headlines of the week's entertainment.

Throughout the year an unusual number of novel parties was held at the house with complete decorations and refreshment. The annual Pledge Formal was held at Bear Hill Country Club in November. Many alumni returned this year as always to attend Homecoming Day, the alumni smoker, and the alumni tea. Another Delt function was the joint parent-faculty tea in April, and the Lance of the Leaning Elm, the D.U. great dane, a sports night with graduates "Fish" Ellis and Art Griffin as speakers, a smoker featuring Deans Wessell and Stearns, two date nights, and short plays were the featured attractions. In honor of their Jackson rushees the brothers presented a banquet a few weeks later.

Interesting parties held throughout the year included a Vice Party and a Pan-American dance, the latter featuring moving pictures of Panama shown by Neal Small, a pledge from the Canal Zone. ALPHA XI DELTA

A coffee for the patronesses opened the year for Lambda Chapter of Alpha Xi Delta and was followed by a program at which Barbara Marshall described her summer trip to the National Convention.

Rush week culminated in the pledging of 19 girls who were feted at a banquet at the English Hunt Room of Howard Johnson's. Christmas activities included a party at the home of Mrs. Lewis Manly and participation in a party for the underprivileged children of Boston run by the four sororities.

Due to the new defense program, a Winter Formal at the Hotel Brunswick was substituted for the Annual Dinner Dance. A theater party at the play, My Sister Eileen, was one of the outstanding events of the year.

The chapter held a rummage sale in February to raise money for the convention fund and followed with the book drive, nationally sponsored by

ATHLETICS

Winter '41

Spring '41

Fall '41

Like that of many other New England colleges, Tufts' athletic policy is devoted to the best interests of the entire student body. No big time scholarship system, rather an emphasis on participation in sporting events by as many as possible, is evident. Nevertheless there have been outstanding Tufts' athletes and teams notably in basketball, baseball, and track. The scholar athlete is one of Tufts' contributions to society.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Delano, Yeager, Houston They make men

The effects of the war program which have caused a general telescoping of the educational system in many instances, have already made themselves felt in athletics here in Tufts. Professor Clarence P. Houston has adopted the commendable attitude of, "sports as usual," and has scheduled as many spring sports as possible. While it is not possible to carry out the original seasons, a shortened lacrosse and track program, supplemented by an enlarged intramural program will keep Tufts men fit.

To look at the athletic system from an undergraduates viewpoint, the possession of the A. A. book of tickets automatically gives the student the right to vote for the officers of the organization. Walter Hall was President of the Tufts A. A. this year, with Grant Curtis serving as Vice-President. Warren Price was the Junior Representative. Professor Houston, Dr. Carpenter and Professor MacNaughton compose the faculty members of the board. Their duties consist of awarding the varsity T to the successful athletes, and passing on the awarding of freshman numerals.

Another important factor connected with the athletic program at Tufts is the Varsity Club. Founded in 1937 by Harold Zimman, the undergraduate organization consisting of varsity letter winners, has steadily forged ahead in noteworthy accomplishments. This year's club presented two trophies, to the Outstanding Fall Athlete, and to the Most Improved Fall Athlete, at the Fall Sports Dance sponsored by the athletes. Later on in the year they again scored a decisive triumph by conducting one of the most successful sub-freshman nights on the Hill since the club's conception.

The officers for 1941–42 were Raymond Valente, President; Grant Curtis, Vice-president; Theodore Dushan, Secretary; Harry Spaulding, Treasurer; Henry Der, Russell Rowell, Jackson Fogarty, Philip Finn and Walter Hall, Executive Committee.

FOOTBALL

The Tufts 1942 football eleven under the inspiring leadership of Co-Captains Art Harrison and Bob Rutter, and the able tutelege of Coach Lew Manly, who has completed his twelfth football season as head coach, charged through Tufts best season since the "undefeated" 1934, by winning five thrilling contests and dropping three hard-fought battles.

JUMBOS TRAMPLE BOWDOIN

The opening victory over a highly-rated Bowdoin eleven at the Tufts Oval on September 7, by a 12—6 margin, gave Tufts grid enthusiasts a very promising outlook. The playing of Senior Grant Curtis, Co-Captain Art Harrison, and newcomer Howie Redgate was very commendable in the opening fray. The whole Jumbo team looked impressive in its initial win.

SLAUGHTER IN VERMONT

The following Saturday the Medford squad trekked to Middlebury, where the visitors took the Vermonters into camp by a 20—0 score. In this annual skirmish Co-Captain Bob Rutter and Junior Bob Bissett sparked the backfield, while two Sophomores, Tony Zullo and George Sweeney, displaying a fine brand of football, stood out in the front line at their respective guard posts.

BATES GOES DOWN HARD

Next the Brown and Blue went down East to tangle with the Bates' Wildcats. In the closing minutes of play with the Tuftsmen on the losing end of the score, Bob Rutter, climaxing a 60 yard Jumbo drive, plunged over for the winning 15—13 margin. George Mernick came into a goodly share of glory in this contest by his excellent offensive pass-catching ability. Visions of an undefeated season marched before the eyes of those on "Hill," but with the next two games they were soon destroyed.

BRUIN WAS TOO BIG

Tufts journeyed to Providence to bait the Brown Bear on October 18, but two bad breaks in the early minutes of the game proved to be disastrous to the Manleymen as the powerful Bruin aggregation piled up 28 points, while a beautifully executed Harrison to Sampson pass netted the Jumbos but six points. Again the star performer was Sophomore Tony Zullo in the line as he continually played his heart out for a dying cause. This was the final game in a long series with the Brown eleven and, although the Jumbos have always put up a grand fight against the Bears, the Rhode Island school is definitely out of Tufts' class.

BUT WILLIAMS DID EVEN BETTER

The real letdown of the season came the following Saturday at the Oval where a capacity Homecoming Day crowd was expecting to see the Brown and Blue outfit break into the win column again. Though the Jumbomen outweighed the Williams team, one of the strongest in the history of the school, the Purple eleven turned on all its power and amassed 34 tallies while Tufts men managed to cross the goal line only once and convert the extra Art Harrison's punting and Anderson's and Rowell's defensive tactics shone through even the gloom that fell over Tufts that fatal afternoon.

RAIN TURNED THE TIDE

On the rain-soaked, muddy gridiron of the Tufts Oval, a fighting Tufts eleven provided a Frank Merriwell finish by edging out a determined North-eastern team, 7—6. Juniors Warren Price and El Richardson proved to be the heroes of that afternoon. Price set up the touchdown by a brilliant wide end sweep for 32 yards and then a few minutes later, on the very same end-around play, scored the Jumbo touchdown. Richardson, despite the wet field and muddy ball, booted the pigskin from a difficult angle through the uprights for the winning point.

DEBACLE AT DURHAM

A powerful, under-rated, and deceptive New Hampshire team handed the Jumbos their only whitewash of the season by piling up 33 counters while the bewildered visiting club was at a standstill. Defensive efforts, especially in the air, were useless in trying to stop the red-hot Wildcats who went to town both on the ground and in the air, and

MASS. STATE WAS OURS

The Brown and Blue climaxed their season with a hardfought but welldeserved 14-7 victory against Mass. State. Johnny Manley came into his own in this contest by scoring from the 10-yard line the final touchdown of the This was, incidentally, the first score of his three years as a member of the varsity club. With a finale at Amherst came the curtain call for 10 Seniors. Co-captains Bob Rutter and Art Harrison, Grant Curtis, Phil Finn, Johnny Manley, Harvey Brooks, Dave Pitman, Al Watts, Dave Heard, and big Andy Anderson undoubtedly displayed a fine brand of football. spite of the fact that all were not stars or even did not see much action, they were a grand group of men whose experiences on the gridiron will make problems in the Alumni world a great deal easier.

Fumble—recovered by Tufts

Thus the Tufts football machine wound up another season by winning five contests and losing three, scoring 81 points to its opponents 127 counters. Although the 1941 edition was not the offensive unit its predecessor was it compiled the best record in seven years. All of which goes to prove that our college is extremely fortunate in possessing a fine mentor in Coach Lew Manly.

The declaration of war in December, 1941, has brought about many changes in collegiate life. At Tufts varsity baseball was eliminated because of the shortened college semester but all indications point towards a "football as usual" season for next year. Everything points to a successful season captained by Bob Bisset and El Richardson. The backfield looks particularly husky with Fortin, Burns, Adams, and Bissett on the squad. The fall will see, too, the first year in which Brown is not on the schedule in many years. Boston University has been picked to replace the Rhode Island university.

BASKET BALL

Art Cochran

No matter how our other athletic teams may fare over the course of a year, it seems true that Tufts students can consistently point with a considerable degree of pride to their varsity basketball team. This year's team was no exception. After an auspicious beginning, a 44–14 victory over the Middlebury panthers, the team went on to enjoy a successful season of eleven wins against nine losses. Although the percentage for this record is only slightly over .500, it can be pointed out that practically all the defeats came at the hands of extremely strong opponents, such as Rhode Island, Brown, Boston University, and Dartmouth, and that in very few instances was the margin of defeat very large. This excellent record, compiled despite the loss of Captain Howie Redgate before the season's end, does credit to the prudent coaching of Art Cochran and to the undying spirit of those who played under his able direction.

In the first game of the season against Middlebury, Bob Scannell came into his own after playing for Tufts for three years and made some excellent break-away shots. Van Gundy, in his initial game, proved to be varsity material. The combination of Redgate, Snyder, Shapiro, Del Ninno, and Scannell clicked from the start and was often the beginning line-up throughout the season with Mernick and Van Gundy as frequent substitutions.

The most disheartening point in the entire season came just after this game, when our comparatively untried varsity was compelled to face the two strongest teams in New England, Dartmouth and Rhode Island, with only one day of rest separating the two games. In the latter game, the score was pretty even until the second half when Marshal Snyder, who had done an excellent job of keeping Rhode Island's star forward from adding up too many points, was taken out on personal fouls. These two defeats were followed shortly by further losses so that at the conclusion of the sixth game, the Tufts record consisted of two victories and four defeats. Both of these games resulted in close competition. In the Vermont game, after Del Ninno dropped the basket which would have tied the game, the Green Mountain State's captain added another two points to their score in the last fourteen seconds of the game.

From this point on, the team really came into its own and gave a good account of itself. It was a much faster team than any that has been seen here at Tufts for several years, and its passing attack was often sensational. The factor most prominent in this team's success seems to have been its balance. There was an emphasis on teamwork, and a minimum of individual stardom, as evidenced by the fact that six men divided the individual scoring honors over the twenty-game schedule.

The season reached its peak of success at the time of the Northeastern and Harvard games, both of which resulted in triumphs for the Brown and Blue. At the Boston Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, the Jumbos completely overwhelmed the Northeastern Huskies by a score of 53–35, before a capacity crowd. A large delegation of Tufts followers trekked in town to watch Del Ninno and Scannell lead the team to victory, scoring thirty-seven points between them, which was more than the total shot by the Husky team. The game was wellplayed throughout, and after the opening moments of the second half there was no doubt as to the outcome. Del Ninno scored twenty-two points in this game, becoming the first Tufts man to reach the twenty-point mark during the season. The Harvard game was a thriller right up to the closing moments, and the final score was 35-33. Again a large Tufts group made the trip to the Cambridge gymnasium to watch Del Ninno duplicate his Northeastern performance, adding twenty-two more points to his season's total. The keynote of this contest was a Harvard basket, which came just after the final gun. Fortunately for the Jumbos, the referee did not allow the points. The fact that Harvard was heavily favored to win this game added to the general enjoyment of Tufts fans.

Boston University to win the Greater Boston college championship, but this title was lost in a hard-fought game at the B. U. floor. Del Ninno, Scannell, and Antonelli combined to score thirty-six points, but this was not enough, and the end of the game found the Bostonians on the long end of a 62–53 score.

Unfortunate financial circumstances compelled Captain Howie Redgate to drop out of school right after mid-year examinations, and there was a general feeling that this loss would be keenly felt by the team. Reserve strength had been far from plentiful all during the season, and it was feared that Howie's absence would be too great to overcome. But with three seniors—Marshall Snyder, Bob Scannell, and Dick Van Gundydividing the captaincy of the last three games, the team fought hard and won two of the three games. Redgate was an excellent captain in the games that he played, and proved that he deserved the honor of being elected captain while only a junior.

With Nick Del Ninno as next year's captain, Rocco Antonelli, and Zeke Shapiro, Coach Cochran has a strong nucleus for next year's team. He also has a strong freshman team from which to select material. The team of 1942, ably managed by Austin Peck, deserves commendation for its fine team work and sportsmanship throughout the season.

This year Tufts extended its basketball season to include games with many service teams from all over New England. The first one was with the Chelsea Naval Hospital quintet, who bowed to the Jumbos with a score of 77 to 32. The second team scheduled proved to be a tougher competitor. This was the 57th Pursuit Squadron which gained a victory by four points. These games were good practice for next year's varsity squad as freshmen were allowed to play with the varsity team.

TRACK

With Captain Walter Hall filling the shoes of the famous Edward Dugger, the Tufts 1942 track team swept to a highly successful indoor season. In the annual informal meets with Harvard and Boston College, which marked the opening of the season the Jumbos gained a split with the victory coming over Boston College.

Next followed dual meets, a loss to Holy Cross and a smashing victory over New Hampshire by a score of 60—35. In spite of outdoor captain Ray Valente's record breaking mark of 33.2

The mile relay team of Reid, Drake, Valente, and Hall was the bright feature of the season and first proved its merit in the B. A. A. games by defeating Rhode Island and Williams in the remarkable time of 3 minutes, 5.5 seconds. They followed this with decisive victories over B. C. and M. I. T. in the New England's and then topped the season with a brilliant win over Holy Cross, Boston College, and Manhattan in the Knights of Columbus meet at New York.

Captain Hall relieved Dugger's absence very nicely by winning the New England Hurdle Championship and taking a third in the I. C. A. A. A. A. games in the 60-yard hurdles. It was in these latter meets that miler Roy Phillips showed good form in taking two thirds. In the field events vaulter Jack Hoffer and broad jumper Warren Price proved consistent point-winners to round out a well balanced team.

Valente, Hall, Phillips and company finished a most successful outdoor season by trimming Mass. State, 87½—33½. While Phillips broke the two mile record and Hall won the 220 yard hurdles, Captain Ray Valente placed second in the latter and won the 440 and 220 yard dashes and the discus.

WRESTLING

The misfortune which has dogged the steps of wrestling coach Ruggeri again struck home as the matmen suffered one of their most disastrous campaigns. The loss of Captain Chan Waldron and Al Di Lorenzo coupled with the probationary absence of several promising Sophomores explains the season's poor record.

Harvard opened the year with the Tufts groan artists and decisively turned the home forces back, 29—5. In the second encounter the team fared better but not well enough to conquer the Amherst outfit who won, 28—10.

Springfield beat Tufts with that score as Paul Slate starred in the 121-pound class. The home team rose to the highest total of the season as M. I. T. claimed a victory 23—15. Powerful Wesleyan overwhelmed the Jumbos, 34—0 to close the year.

successful season saw the squad reach the semi-finals of the New England Hockey Tournament. Student enthusiasm furnished jackets for the boys and a banquet was held on March 11.

Chiefly responsible for all this was coach Harry Briggs whose hard work and sacrifice equipped the squad and made it a working unit. Other men on the team were Price, Ryan, Rutter, McQuillan, Battis, McClellan, Haines McGuire, Innis, Beers, Dillon, and Flandis.

TENNIS

Tufts 1941 season saw the Jumbo netmen take well-played matches from Colby, Boston College, New Hampshire, and Bates twice and drop five more to Boston University, Wesleyan, Brown, Trinity and Springfield.

The 1942 squad was a question mark in the Tufts athletic setup. While veterans Linden, Harrigan, and Milhench were lost several new men from the former freshman squad greatly strengthened the outfit. Among the newcomers were Norman Huey, Paul

Bill Howard

Zinner, and Bob Sackett, who had starred in 1941. Also returning were veterans captains Bill O'Brien and John McBeath, Ted Dushan, Burleigh Wellington, and Craig Scott. Fourteen in all answered Coach Howard's call for early practice.

Tim Ring

The 1941 lacrosse season could hardly be termed a success, for the sport, carried on somewhat informally, was hampered by a lack of depth, reflected in the team's record. The stickmen won one game and dropped eight.

As for the 1942 season, Timmy

Ring's charges hoped to improve upon their 1941 record. Hit hard by graduation, especially in respect to attack man Bob Mitchell, the team had two outstanding replacements in sophomores George Foster and Jack Keller.

The schedule was a bit unsettled due to wartime contingencies and had to be played in one half the usually-allotted time. This was a distinct handicap, but the boys were called out earlier than usual to make up for it.

SOCCER

The soccer team, although weak in reserve power this year, capitalized on a strong nucleus of returning veterans. Despite this lack of balance, Coach Slug Morten developed the team into a smooth-functioning unit, and its season record, fifth in a league of eighteen teams, is the best in Tufts soccer history.

After a slow start, including defeats at the hands of Harvard and Amherst, Tufts beat a strong Wesleyan team, 2-1. Worcester Polytech and Dartmouth were victorious, but the team finished strongly with wins over Clark, Brown, and Connecticut State.

It is difficult to pick individual stars but orchids go to Captain Harry Spaulding, Jack Keller (Outstanding Fall Athlete), Eddie West, Dick Van Gundy, and Zeke Shapiro.

Prof. Yeager

Paced by Sophomore Roy Phillips, an inexperienced Jumbo cross country team swept through a very successful fall season with two wins against one loss in its dual meets and placed ninth in the New England Intercollegiate Cross Country Championship Meet held in Franklin Park.

CROSS COUNTRY

Phillips opened the season against Boston University by taking first place with a time of 19 minutes, 57 seconds, only 22 seconds over the record set by Tufts IC4A champion, Bill Atkinson.

The Brown and Blue Harriers continued their success by upsetting an experienced Amherst team 20—36. With Phillips leading the pack, the Jumbos again swept the first three places. On November 4 the Yeagermen dropped their first meet to Northeastern, 17—45.

INTRAMURALS

"Athletics for All; All for Athletics" was never a more appropriate slogan for the program of Intramural Sports at Tufts than during the winter months. Coach Chester Delano, assisted by "Nick" Nicholas, "Dave" Wyman, "Phil" Burke, "Art" Harrison, and Burch Lorett directed all-school tournaments in basketball, wrestling, and squash, while competition in track, baseball, and golf was scheduled in the warmer months. This year a greater percentage of the student body participated than ever before.

Over two hundred players composed the twenty-four basketball teams which were divided into three leagues. The Fraternity league was again won by the A. T. O's, while the non-fraternity leagues were won by the Bachelors and Maroons respectively. In the semifinal play-off, the Maroons defeated the Bachelors 28–25. However, on Intramural Night, March 6, the Maroons were decisively outscored 42–28 by the Alpha Tau Omega Champion Fraternity team, composed of Ramos, Jackson, Wuehrmann, Parris, Rush, Wangner, and Anastos. This decided the All-College Basketball Crown.

Over one hundred men competed in the wrestling tournament, the champions being crowned Intramural Night. In the 128 pound class, George Wicks of ZP won a hard-fought decision over Ed Jervis of DTD; in the 135 pound final, Johnny Gehling of DTD won a fall over Dick Hollander of DU; in the 145 pound class, Hugh McQuillan of ATO won a decision over "Chick" Rutter of TDC; in the 155 pound final, Zete "Bud" Emery pinned brother "Joe" Maker; in the 165 pound class, Pete Ayer of TDC pinned Frank Spang of ATO; in the 175 pound final, Mike Graffeo of AKP decisioned Bruce Watkins of DTD; Vito Adams pinned Marsh Snyder of DTD to win the unlimited class. Theta Delta Chi won the fraternity title with Delta Tau Delta close behind.

The Delta Tau Delta squash team won that sport with Phi Epsilon Pi, Delta Upsilon, and Theta Delta Chi following in that order. Members of the team were Gehling, Kinnison, Jervis, Caesar, and Snyder.

The popular spring sports, track, baseball, and golf drew many participants, and decided the all college, all-sports championship.

FROSH SPORTS

Over sixty men, one of the largest groups of freshmen football candidates in the history of Tufts, reported to Coach Delano at the beginning of the season. Despite an initial 19-7 defeat at the hands of a better coordinated Dean Academy team it seemed that the freshmen were headed toward a successful year. However, the following week Huntington won a 6-0 decision on a sloppy rain soaked field. A sensational Northeastern team found the Jumbo Frosh a greatly improved club but the junior Huskies were superior as much as the 7-6 score indicates. Our freshmen proved superior to Lawrence Academy and pushed over two scores to win 13-0. This was their only win of the year for in their remaining games they were beaten by Andover 6-0, and by the New Hampshire Frosh 20-2.

This is not an impressive record, but several of the games were played in the rain and were marred by fumbles. Fletcher at center, Webber at tackle, and Howard in the backfield gave good accounts of themselves; they should prove valuable assets to the varsity next year.

The cross-country team led by Forrest Jacobs and Dick Smith had varying success. The team beat the Northeastern Freshmen but lost to Lynn English and Arlington high schools and to Lawrence Academy. Jacobs placed fifth in the New England cross country meet. The soccer team was the least successful of all, having lost four games and tied one.

The basketball team, sparked by Shepherd and Markman started what appeared to be a sensational court season. Fortin, Ham, and La Fortune rounded out the quintet which swept to decisive victories over Babson Institute, the M. I. T. Freshmen, and the Tufts Dental School before meeting defeat at the hands of the Brown Freshmen. The team was subsequently beaten by the freshmen of New Hampshire and W.P.I., and by Exeter Academy, and then snapped this losing streak by whipping the Northeastern Freshmen. In postseason games with service teams Shepherd, Markman, and Fortin were teamed with varsity men Del Ninno and Shapiro to form a high scoring quintet which may turn out to be next year's starting five.

The freshmen wrestling team, while not outstanding, promises some good men to Sam Ruggeri in the persons of Tait, Gratton, Thalheimer, and Finn.

The track team also has its goodly share of stars. Sparrow is a fine all-around track man participating in the hurdles event, the shot-put, and high jump. Charles Kirkiles seems destined to fill the sprint shoes vacated by Tufts great track star, Ed Dugger. The Lowell athlete has been practically unbeatable in the short races and under the tutelage of Coach Dussault will go to even greater triumphs. The mile relay team made up of Miranda, Jacobs, Smith, and Kirkiles decisively outran Rindge Tech, and showed plenty of speed in several informal indoor meets.

JACKSON SPORTS

Jackson Coaches

Jackson athletics are under the direction of the Athletic Association Council, including the Athletic Association, the officers of which are: Barbara Hammond, President; Marion Davis, Vice President; Madelyn Brown, Secretary; Barbara Chamberlain, Treasurer; with the Outing Club, whose officers are: Alice Moore, Chairman and Jackson representative to the Tufts Mountain Club; Constance Arnold, Vice Chairman; Margaret Anthony, Secretary-Treasurer; and the managers of the various sports.

This council meets once a week and functions as a body to control the intercollegiate sports program, and, more important, to direct intra-mural activities and Outing Club events.

The intercollegiate contests include the fall hockey schedule, the winter basketball games, and in the spring, tennis matches, archery, and golf quadrangles.

VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY

to the utmost in preparation for the contests with Pembroke, Radcliffe, and the University of New Hampshire.

The game with the University of New Hampshire girls was cancelled because of rain, but the team journeyed to Pembroke where they were defeated in a hard-fought contest. They defeated Radcliffe in their next game with little trouble. The hockey team this year took part in a meet which was held at Pembroke College. At this meet, several New England college hockey teams played short periods together in order to enable umpires to get their ratings under the observation of examiners. Jackson played against Wheaton, University of Connecticut, and Rhode Island State College teams.

Although their schedule didn't include a great many intercollegiate games, the team had a very enjoyable season under the direction of Miss Lincks, Miss Hall, Miss Huston and its able captain, Barbara Hammond.

Results:

Jackson 1—Pembroke 4 Jackson 2—Radeliffe 1

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Due to the fact that a large number of girls, including a great percentage of fine Freshmen material vied for places on the varsity squad, the season for the basketball team was an extra good one. Captained by Sally Elwyn, the team practiced faithfully five times a week in the Cousens Intra-mural gym and was rewarded by winning four games and tying one. This record was a result of teamwork, well-executed plays, and strict training.

Results:

Jackson	26—New	Hampshire	25
Jackson	23—Sarge	\mathbf{ent}	23

At the beginning of the season the varsity played a practice game with the well-known Antiques' team, and were edged out 40—36.

The second team also did well this winter, winning two games to its one loss. From this squad there is promising material to add to the varsity team of next year, which should have a topnotch season.

VARSITY TENNIS, ARCHERY, AND GOLF

Last spring the Jackson varsity tennis team engaged in matches with Wheaton and Pembroke, defeating the latter 4—1, while Wheaton won its match, leading Jackson 6—3.

There has been an increasing popularity of golf and archery at Jackson in the last few years. In the spring and fall Jackson competed in archery, golf quadrangles and meets with other New England women's college teams, doing extremely well in both.

MODERN DANCE GROUP

Modern dancing is now one of Jackson's most popular sports and is conducted by Miss Lincks. The modern dance group is composed of girls who have completed requirements in technique and have done some creative work. The group practices intensively all winter in preparation for its annual spring modern dance recital. Miss Lincks, interested for some time in the art of the dance, has lent much of her enthusiasm to the study and to the coaching of the group.

At present, the dance group is preparing for participation in a symposium at Pembroke, which will also include Radcliffe and Wheaton. Here the groups will compare methods of technique and studies created by the different groups.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Beside the major sports there is an extensive intramural sports program conducted by the Athletic Association, so that every girl who has any desire might find an opportunity to participate in athletics. The fall season opens the way to intramural tennis, while in the winter the Jackson sports are highlighted by basketball, bowling, and badminton. The much publicized Spring Field Day develops a keen rivalry between the four sorority and one non-sorority groups. In each of these seasons a trophy is given to the winning group, who retain it for the following year.

This fall the tennis tournament was not completed because of unfavorable weather conditions, but many hard-fought matches were held. The basket-ball trophy was awarded to the Jumbo team, which was a crack outfit that could not be defeated by any of the sorority groups. The A. O. P's took second place, the Chi Omegas third, with the Alpha Xi's fourth and the Sigma Kappas fifth.

The annual Field Day, held on a spring afternoon, consists of a series of matches in golf, archery, horseshoes, ring tennis, and badminton followed by a supper in the Jackson gym, served by the Athletic Association Council to the participants in all varsity and intramural sports during the year.

The Outing Club provides a cookout at Cedar Hill and a canoe trip on the Charles each year. Beside these two events this year, the Club's program included bicycling, bowling, skating, "splash" parties, and mountain climbing.

FEATURES

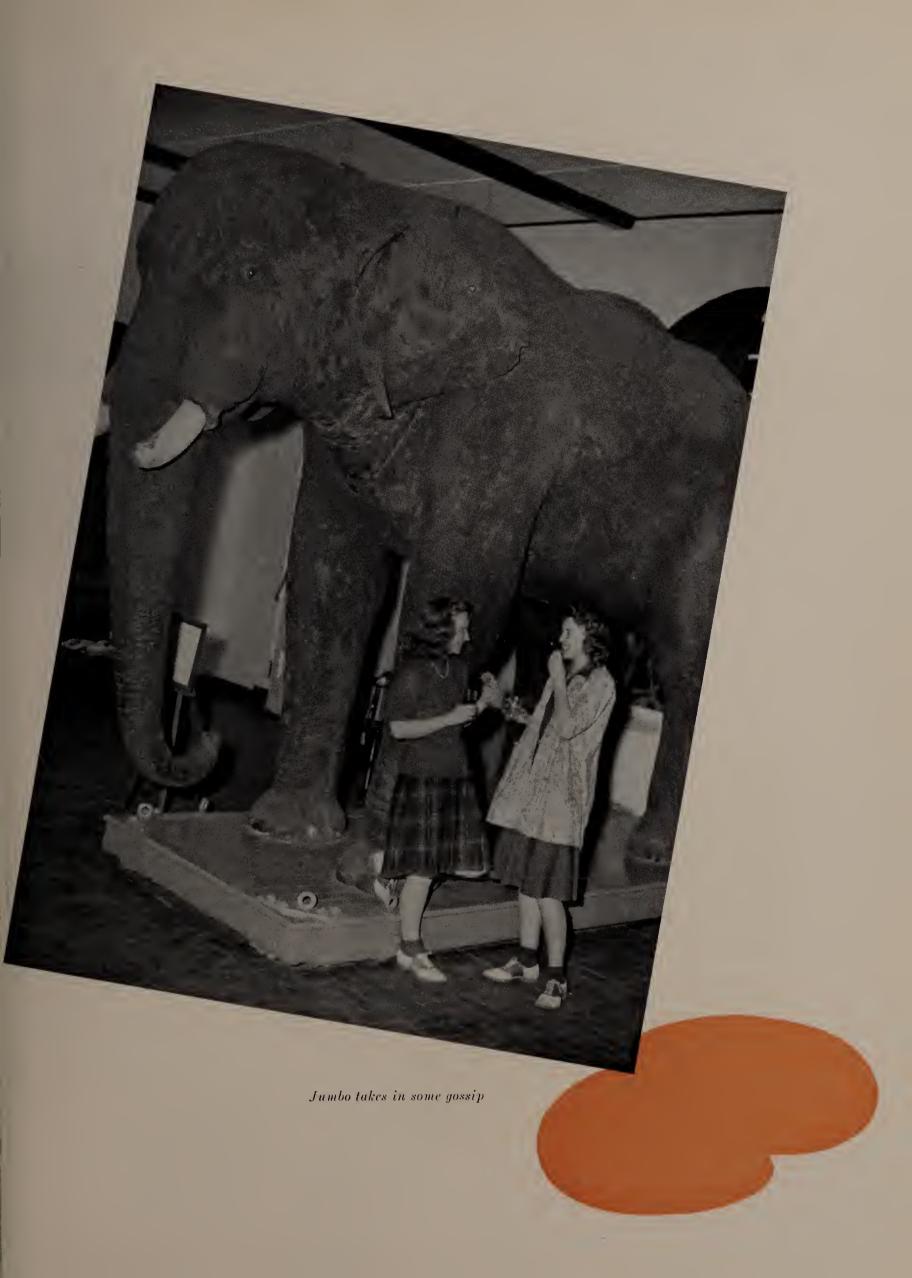

No service

Just a bunch of rich kids

Not everything at Tufts is seriously devoted to a purpose. It is only natural that a typical country-like eampus would breed all the aspects of typical college life. Tufts men date, eut classes, attend the symphony and the Old Howard, participate in mayoral campaigns and bookstore bull sessions, and drink at the Jumbo only because they are human. In these activities are some of the finest memorics of college years.

In so far as the printing of college annuals is concerned, this bit of wisdom might be re-worded "A Company Is Known by the Clients It Keeps."

We are proud of the Annuals we continue to publish year after year. This patronage, we believe, reflects our ability to produce fine letter press printing, otherwise we would not be entrusted with such responsibility.

THIS IN CLOSING

No two or three people could publish a book of this size. We owe thanks to many, only a few of whom we may mention here.

To Miss Cooper and Milt Fitch of Howard-Wesson Engraving Company, Paul K. Blanchard of the Warren Press, Franklyn Waid, Jr., Miss Dempsey, and Mr. Yerkes of Waid Studio, Professor Houston, Richard Kelley, Professor Miller, President Carmichael, Ernest Jenkins, The Boston Herald artist Jack Frost, Dick Mulroy, Frank Pote, Ella Munroe, Gordon Holland, and Roger Whittemore, all of whom rendered us help of inestimable value; and most of all to the departmental heads, Corrine Manuel, Eileen Jamieson, Ray Valente, Walt Hittl, Brenda Lewis, Vi Ray, Terry Terhune, Mel Stone, Elaine Lawrence, Doreen Simpson, Barbara Davis, Betty Harvey, and Madelyn Brown we wish to express our appreciation.

Excluding confiscated eameras and censored or cut copy we hope that the 1942 Jumbo Book is as much like the Tufts we knew and you knew as possible. We hope that our Jumbo Book will serve not only as reference for next year's frosh and the alumni office but also as a cue for that "up-on-the-Hill-Tonight" feeling for those who are leaving.

What better purpose could there be in the life of a yearbook?

Early in the volume we expressed a pessimistic attitude that perhaps this might be the last $Jumbo\,Bcok$ —that this pictures the last years of college days as we knew them. We're sure that the fighting spirit and clear thinking of thousands of Americans will disprove our claim. Some day in a peaceful future days like these will return and new $Jumbo\,Books$ will express their nature. That should be our hope and aim.
